

PENRITH AWARD

The Penrith Award is awarded each year by the National Executive Institute to a police executive they feel that has had an important impact on law enforcement. In an effort to obtain deserving candidates, the Executive Board created a selection committee composed of individuals that had previously received the award.

To be nominated the candidate must be a graduate of the F.B.I. National Executive Institute, but continues to contribute to law enforcement. The nominations must be made by a graduate of the N.E.I. Mac Connole, chairman of the committee, then contacts the previous winners and between them they make the final selection. The award is given to a member of the Associates who has exhibited excellence in law enforcement administration.

Traits such as leadership in law enforcement matters on a National level, personal courage to face adversity, or substantial or innovative contributions to the administration of a law enforcement agency are among the traits that are considered.

This award is given out at the Penrith Awards Banquet in Sun Valley, Idaho, which this year will be held June 8, 2007. If you wish to submit the name of a nomination please do so by May 2, 2007 and attach a brief explanation as to what accomplishments you feel the person has had in his/her law enforcement career.
